

Computing Center wins Cornell Supplier Recognition Award

Posted At : June 30, 2015 9:36 AM | Posted By : Admin

Related Categories: Computing Center News, Cornell University

The Computing Center has been recognized with a Cornell University Top Performer Supplier Recognition Award for 2015. The awards were presented to Becky Martin and Mary Stazi at the Supplier Recognition Event hosted by Cornell Procurement Services in June.

This is the fourth year that Cornell has made awards to its top performing suppliers and the third year in a row that Computing Center has won a Top Performer Award. These awards recognize the companies that have consistently performed best in product and service quality, pricing, order fulfillment, customer satisfaction, and social responsibility. Cornell campus customers are invited to evaluate supplier performance through a customer satisfaction survey. Cornell is one of the first universities to recognize suppliers in this way.

The Computing Center has been a local supplier to Cornell since 1980. In addition to many products and services we provide to Cornell, The Computing Center is the primary supplier to the University for computer printer toners and inks. Since 2012, we have annually procured, managed, delivered, and helped recycle over 10,000 printer toners and ink cartridges to the University.